Placing Women's Stories in the Historical Landscape

Free Public Presentation – Hybrid Session

May 20, 2026, Wednesday, 1:30 – 3:30 pm

In-person: Hope United Church, 3055 Connaught Ave., Halifax

Online: Zoom webinar

In a history dominated by colonial wars, politics, and trade, all considered the domain of men until the mid-20th century, how do we find women's stories? What do they add to our understanding? In this presentation, well-known stories of Mi'kma'ki/Nova Scotia from the 17th-century to the Second World War, will be told from the perspective of women.

ANNE-MARIE LANE JONAH, an historian with Parks Canada, worked with the Fortress of Louisbourg and other historic sites in the Maritimes. At Louisbourg she coauthored French Taste in Atlantic Canada 1604-1758 with chef Chantal Véchambre, a culinary history which received an Atlantic Book Award. As a volunteer she has served as editor of the Journal of the Royal Nova Scotia Historical Society and is currently Chair of the Nova Scotia Women's History Society.
