Step inside the wonderful world of today's dance and music — everything from a fiddle and harp jam session to jazz dancing. Members of the Maritime Conservatory of Performing Arts, a longstanding pillar of the Nova Scotia arts community, will welcome us. Director Simon Robinson will tell us a little about the 135 year history of the non-profit Conservatory, the School of Dance's programs, about the Conservatory's role in our health and wellbeing, and their exciting plans for the future. Flutist Sibylle Marquardt will describe the many programs the School of Music has for all ages, and Anna Plaskett will engage us in a musical experience and tell us about her fun and healing Music Therapy Program. There might even be a fun musical exercise for you!
